Chapter 1:

Introduction

Synopsis

Now you might be wondering how feng shui can help you. Well it can help you in different ways and here I am going to show you how.

Feng shui can help in selecting the most suitable and fruitful location for you. This Chinese system of geomancy believed one can improve life by receiving positive qi. It uses the laws of both Heaven (Chinese astronomy) and Earth. Feng shui was widely used to orient buildings, and other structures, for example tombs—spiritual structures. It started losing its popularity during the Chinese Cultural Revolution in 1960. But since then its popularity is growing day by day.

The Basics

As per The Skeptic Encyclopedia of Pseudoscience feng shui is a combination of folk remedies, rational remedies and superstitions.

Now it is important to know some background history about feng shui.

The culture period of Yangshao and Hongshan was the main rising time of feng shui. All believed that feng shui is older than the magnetic compass.

Feng shui is more than 3500 years old and the Chinese star map has actually proved this very fact. It has Dragon and Tiger asterisms and also Beidou the Big Dipper, also known as the Ladle or Bushel. It was situated through the north-south pole. It was found in a 4000 BC old grave at Puyang.

Today feng shui is practiced to build a suitable environment for human with good qi. Three main things dominate feng shui they are:

- 1) Qi (ch'i): Qi (氣) is chee in English. It is a movable positive or negative life force. It plays the main role in feng shui. As per the book of Burial they take advantages of vital qi. Wu Yuanyin of Qing dynasty said that it was congealed qi. This qi engenders life.

2) Polarity: it depends upon the Yin and Yang Theory. It is similar to a magnetic dipole. The work of Yang is acting and Yin receiving. Metal, earth, fire, water, and wood are considered as five primary elements. Chinese medicine, also work, depends on Yang and Yin.

3) Bagua (eight trigrams): In feng shui two diagrams known as bagua (or pa kua) loom large. They both predate their mentions in the Yijing (or I Ching). As per Yaodian the cardinal directions are determined by the mega-constellations' marker-stars, known as the Four Celestial Animals.

East: The Blue Dragon (spring equinox) is Niao (Bird 鳥), α Scorpionis

West: The White Tiger (autumn equinox) is Mǎo (Hair 昴), η Tauri (the Pleiades)

North: The Dark Turtle (winter solstice) is Xū (Emptiness, Void 虛), α Aquarii, β Aquarii

South: The Red Phoenix (summer solstice) is Huo (Fire 火), α Hydrae

There are three main schools are in Feng shui

1) Form school: here focuses on the surrounding landscapes such as hill, water, and body.

2) Compass school: here the style is oriented on eight points of the compass.

3) Black hat sect school: This is a modern version of feng shui. It developed in the USA as a hybrid of Tibetan Buddhism. It is a combination of Taoism and traditional feng shui. This type of feng shui works upon the direction of the Front Door.

Traditional feng shui relies upon the compass for accurate readings.

Modern day feng shui has become popular. Nowadays, you will get wealthy and cheap versions available on the market. It is so popular today that Master Aaron Lee Koch of New York, USA, established an award upon feng shui.

Chapter 2:

Where Did Feng Shui Start

Synopsis

You have already got to know that China is the birthplace of feng shui and you know some basic facts about feng shui but do you know the entire history of feng shui?

Well, now it is time to know about the rich history behind the ancient Chinese art feng shui.

Where Did Feng Shui Start?

Feng shui has become immensely popular all over the globe in the modern times. Especially in China, feng shui has become very popular. We need to go deep down into the history to figure out how exactly feng shui has started and why it has changed the life of so many people and where does the real secret lie?

We are going to discuss everything in details. Feng shui has started or rather it was invented many years ago, it was since the Tang Dynasty it was actually started. Master Yang Sung Sang is the most respected man in the history of feng shui. He was the one who invented feng shui. So the people who follow feng shui should be indebted to him. It was from him everything has started.

In his site, the dragon had the most important significance and there are other symbols such as hills, valleys and various water bodies. Some particular areas on earth had some vital energies or what we call chi, it was told that chi found the dragon and all those things which were formed naturally on earth were symbolized with various shapes of animals such as a green colored dragon or white colored tiger.

Feng shui is certainly very interesting and produce great effects in our lives and the effects are definitely positives if it is used or handled properly. Nowadays, it is not only followed in China, it is followed all over the world too.

Then it was about one century later, during the time of the Song Dynasty, the compass feng shui school which is a different feng shui school from the previous one, slowly and gradually, started to become very popular and well accepted by the people in the society. It was during this dynasty, Wang Chih who was another master of feng shui started teaching feng shui.

The work in this school was basically based on the directions where the compass pointed to and the eight sided symbol created by the baqua was arranged by the “I ching trigrams”.

The Yin Yang Theory was also started by the school and also the “Lo Shu Square Theory”. Slowly and steadily the generation of feng shui has started to move in rapid pace.

The compass school master for the first time introduced the time dimensions. What it determined was, for a particular place, the perfect timing of the work. The concept of “kua” number helped us to determine which direction was lucky for us and it also used the client’s birth date to figure out the most valuable energy.

During the latter part of the nineteenth century, the two different schools as we know so far, the landscape feng shui school and the compass feng shui school have joined in collaboration. Thus it provided a much deeper knowledge and it gave the power of determining the energy in any given area, be it school, college or home. Thus, feng shui has started to become even stronger than before.

Another type of feng shui is the feng shui of symbols and there is no separate school for it. It is quite difficult and one needs to put a lot of attention in this.

People generally become very much confused with this aspect of feng shui. The symbols of feng shui are known to us from a very long time, it generally carries great traditions and it has got a very deep meaning to it.

Here are many feng shui items we use in our house, so we are aware of those items like with a piece of a red string the Chinese coins are attached or the picture of a dragon or a toad with three legs. Not every symbol suits us; there are some specific symbols which suits us best.

Chapter 3:

Feng Shui Your Wallet for Financial Freedom

Synopsis

We are all aware of the fact that feng shui can bring the significant positive change in our life and especially when it comes to wealth and financial life. Now you have to know how it can change our entire financial condition in a positive way.

Finances

As feng shui has become so popular all over the world, certain symbols or paintings or charms when kept in our house can bring good luck in our lives and can improve our financial conditions too and we all are aware of that at the moment.

Feng shui has some other influences too, it is not only about keeping certain things inside our house for improving our financial situation, but feng shui can also be done in our wallet to improve our financial status and we shall be discussing that in this in details. Feng shui helps us to choose the appropriate kind of a wallet for us to help improve the inflow of cash. So feng shui does increase our income.

We should choose a big wallet for us; it should be large enough to hold many things such as money, coins and important papered documents etc.

There should be a separate place for keeping all those things inside the wallet itself.

According to feng shui, choosing an expensive wallet is not important at all, we need to see when we are choosing a wallet for us, if it makes us feel happy or not. There should be a good feeling about choosing the wallet and that is very important.

The good feeling should be such, every time we open our wallet there should be a sense of good feeling, it should not be the case like we are not feeling good showing our wallet to the public.

The wallet should not contain any kind of receipts as a receipt notifies money being spent on something or other. So we should keep our wallet free from any kind of receipt. We should clean our wallet quite often, cleaning our wallet means we need to make sure we throw away any kind of unwanted papers or receipts from the wallet, it is also recommended that we should not carry many credit cards inside our wallet and credit cards means borrowing money or loans.

We do not need to keep many cards inside our wallet, only the ones we use in our daily lives should be kept inside and the rest should be outside the wallet. It is better to keep the cards that we like with ourselves all the time.

If we have a good and a prestigious credit card, it is recommended that we should keep it in one safe place inside our wallet as every time we look at it we do feel the sense of pride for being the owner of the card or by looking at that card we feel good about our financial status.

We need to keep our wallet at a good place and the place should be special, maybe in a place where we keep our shirts and trousers or our coats, it could be near the keys of our cars as well. Keeping our wallet in a basket just at the place where we enter also helps.

This really boosts our financial freedom and it has been proved right over the years. We will get attracted to our money more if we are assured that it is in a secured place and no one will take it away.

When we return home after work during the evening, our wallet should not be tossed on the kitchen table, we should always be aware of where we keep our wallet, searching for the wallet when it is required is not a good thing at all.

It creates and replicates negative vibes within us and that decreases the level of our prosperity.

So it is very important that we should follow each and every rule of feng shui regarding our wallet as that will surely enhance our financial freedom, almost all over the world, there are plenty of people who have tried these methods and have been rewarded, it is by their experience we are actually coming to know about the good effects. In life it is not all about working hard at the end of the day, these small things can provide miracles.

Chapter 7:

Use the Feng Shui Five-Element Color Cycle to Change Your Life

Synopsis

If you want to take advantage of feng shui in your life then colors are the simplest way to do so. Colors can be extremely powerful because they bring the expression of light to the life. Too many offices starve for light and decrease the amount of productivity from human lives. A strange thing is that people do not come to know that they can bring their productivity and cheerfulness by changing colors of their surroundings.

The most basic color principle of feng shui is known as the ‘Five Elements Color Cycle’. This principle makes use of five feng shui elements in a proper way for achieving desired results.

You may or may not know but the five elements of feng shui are Wood, Fire, Earth, Metal and Water. All these elements interact with each other in a certain way and create two types of cycles – productive cycles and destructive cycles.

Color Cycle

If we use colors in our surroundings according to productive cycle then we may get a cheerful and powerful experience in our life. On the other hand, if we make mistakes in choosing colors according to productive cycles the negative energies may hurt your productivity badly.

Every feng shui element is represented by a specific color. Given below are colors correspondent to the each element:

- Wood: Brown and Green
- Fire: Red, Orange, Strong Yellow, Purple and Pink
- Earth: Light Brown, Sandy and Light Yellow
- Metal: Grey and White
- Water: Black and Blue

Understanding the perfect way of using colors to balance the energy of your home is a quite complex topic, but as you may assume, there are always basics to everything. The right placement of feng shui colors is defined by using bagua. Bagua stands for the feng shui energy map of your home or office.

The energy of South feng shui bagua area relates to your reputation and fame. In simple words, that area relates to Light because fame and reputation have good relationship with light. And light comes from Fire. So the southern area of your space relates to the Fire element. It means that you should use only Red, Orange, Yellow, Purple and Pink colors in that area. Any other colors including Blue, Green and so on shouldn't be used.

Similarly, Green color is just fantastic for improving health of every family member when used in the East feng shui bagua area. Blue color in the North bagua area is a good choice for career growth. On the other hand, blue color in southern or eastern area is good for wealth and money. Placement of some strong yellow color in the southern area is excellent for good times and happy gatherings. Pure white color in the West bagua area will work extremely well for supporting all other elements and for increasing creativity in the members.

One more thing should be remembered while choosing these settings. You should check the lighting conditions of your home throughout the day before doing these placements. Will your chosen colors look brighter in morning? How are they going to look like in the artificial lighting of night? So check out the lighting conditions first and then choose a pattern according to these settings.

Chapter 8:

Meaning of Symbols

Synopsis

Symbols have been used in feng shui from a long time for numerous purposes. Some symbols are very well known like a tortoise as a symbol of protection and stability or mandarin ducks as a symbol of love and marriage.

However, some are less known like bats and chi lins. This list of feng shui symbols will surely help you out in understanding more about these symbols.

Before I start mentioning things about symbols, I want to tell you that there's a very subtle line between "feng shui cures" and "feng shui symbols" because symbols are used as cures in feng shui. Now it's time to proceed to the list.

Symbols

Flowers

Flowers add energy of grace and beauty to the homes. They also provide numerous blessings, flourishing and good luck to any home. Placing real flowers in the home is always a best idea for bringing the strong healing energy but high quality silk flowers and images of flowers are also used in feng shui.

Butterflies

The most common use of Butterfly symbol is for love and romance because it is the only thing that gives you the feeling of flying. However, it is also used for representing freedom.

Horses

As you may expect, horses as a symbol in feng shui represent speed, fame, success and freedom. That's why they're often used either in the fame bagua area (southern area) or in the career bagua area (northern area) of living space.

Birds

Humans have looked at birds from the very beginning of life. A bird represents freedom, inspiration and unity with divine. And yes, specific birds may have specific symbols because every bird has its own distinctive and unique qualities.

Fruits

Fruits represent the energy of fruition. They are used as symbols of prosperity, wealth, longevity, fertility etc. Of course, specific fruits have specific symbols.

Fishes/Aquarium

Fishes are also used as a symbol of wealth and the most famous fish for this purpose is Arrowana or Dragon Fish. But the problem with them is that purest Arrowanas cost quite expensive to the buyer. So normally people use Koi or Golden Fish for the same purpose and they work as effectively as an Arrowana. 8 or 9 fishes work fine for an aquarium and it is great if one of them is black.'

Mystic Knot

This is one of the often used but less known symbols in feng shui. It represents a longer life full of happiness and fortune.

Buddha

When you have a very busy lifestyle, it's always a good choice to place this symbol of peace in your home for balancing the effect of active energies.

Fu Dogs

Fu Dogs are a strong symbol of protection and that's why they're often placed in front of Temples, Government Offices and Imperial Places. They also used to be a symbol of social status and family wealth and were placed in front of wealthy homes.

Dragon

Dragon is a symbol of wealth, power, opportunities and strong Yang male energy. It doesn't require any special place and having a feng shui dragon in almost any part of your home is auspicious.

Chapter 9:

The decoration will also look pretty amazing in your home, so let's get started:

Decorating

- First of all keep your home and office free from clutter.
- Use symbols in the environment which indicated towards wealth and prosperity.
- Decorate your workplace and home with a feng shui aquarium.
- Take good care of your feng shui money area and keep it clean and clear.
- Use feng shui crystals and essential oils for increasing the amount of positive energies in your surroundings. Citrine crystal is the most widely known crystal for wealth in feng shui. Wrapping Up

Decorating Tips for Happiness

If you follow some good practices of feng shui then finding happiness is not a very hard task. Feng shui says that if you're not having the full joy then chi isn't flowing in the right direction in your home. The good news is that you can bring even more happiness and fun to your life by improving the flow of positive and beneficial energy. In this section I'm going to recommend some tips for increasing the amount of happiness in your home through feng shui.

Make sure your house is free of clutter

The first and most basic thing to do is to ensure that your house is clean and is free of clutter. Energy may not be retained in your home if it is filled with clutter and often it may also transform into stagnant energy. If you have stagnant energy in your surroundings, then surely your body will also become stagnant.

Focus on the abundance and creativity areas of your feng shui bagua

The key of happiness lies in these two areas of bagua. Abundance doesn't only mean wealth; but it also means prosperity, happiness and peace. Now comes the creativity area, so you should know already that creativity is the key to creation. Whether you are cooking meal, composing music, creating art or are doing something else, everything begins from creativity. So if family members have enough creativity then they will be able to complete tasks in a more intuitive manner. All these things will lead to a happy life.

Make the environment around you more playful

Maybe you don't know, but your house communicates with your mind 24x7. It should look like a mirror of your future if you want to live a happy life. Every person sees some dreams for his/her future, and if we live with those dreams, we'll be able to live cheerfully. Place some toys, some funny and vibrant colors in your home. May be a medium-sized statue of Mickey Mouse!

Incorporate some moving objects in the environment

Moving objects like wind chimes, mobiles and fountains increase the amount of positive energy in the home. They also help in changing the flow of chi towards the right direction. A wind chime on your front door will be nice selection.

Allow some sunlight in your home

Your rooms may look pretty stylish and well furnished with good furniture and expensive items. They may look so well furnished, but I bet that you won't be able to live a very happy life if you haven't allowed sunlight in your home. Humans require sunlight and researches have also said that exposure to sunlight at least for 10 minutes is mandatory for every person on a daily basis. It is a factor that affects health, and in feng shui it also affects happiness.

Allow some air

I know that you will be feeling very comfortable in your tightly-packed air conditioned rooms, but for the sake of your happiness it will be better if you open some windows and allow the flow of fresh air. It is good for health, and also for happiness. After all, only a healthy person can live happily!
